

Golden Joinery

We hide some memory let some things go every corner of the world filled with the things people give up we stay alive to see how the world is changing dreaming around it is like writing a long letter to yourself it is like you found your favorite blue tape box, you don't even have to play it you know every single song and every single note happiness could it always be replayed ?

The shape and the smile in my mind become slightly unreal my body suddenly senses some similar whiff of the past along with the now it makes me tremble

breath
I take a breath the sunshine is so soft kissing me in a golden way I get the birthmark of the entire spring

I have not a single sense of time the stitches are like starlight tiny but shiny I like to touch them even if something I love is already gone I catch it from the shiny point

There's no tide that's always high nobody could hold their favorite moment forever don't be afraid

the pieces of moment combine into the eternal

Imperfect is perfect for me

Golden Joinery

Written by Ruini Wang for the GOLDEN JOINERY video Summer 2016 Amsterdam

